

Your responses suggest that your employer must pay your full rate of pay for the hours that you have agreed to work after the transfer.

81 Transfer to a safe job

- (1) This section applies to a pregnant employee if she gives her employer evidence that would satisfy a reasonable person that she is fit for work, but that it is inadvisable for her to continue in her present position during a stated period (the risk period) because of:
 - (a) illness, or risks, arising out of her pregnancy; or
 - (b) hazards connected with that position.

- (4) If the employee is transferred to an appropriate safe job for the risk period, the employer must pay the employee for the safe job at the employee's full rate of pay (for the position she was in before the transfer) for the hours that she works in the risk period.
